INTERNAL — DO NOT HAND THIS OVER

Ali's C Store — what you need in the room

You are Jeremy Howell, unlovedproductions. Cell on the packet: (661) 768-8545. Tagline: Forged in passion. 1048 Kern St, Taft, CA 93268 · October 2026. Hand them the owner decision packet only.

1. Before you walk in > October 5, 2026 correction. He is already first. Do not use the September line that he is hard to find, that hours are missing, or that 6-vs-85 is a directory count. He will search it. If your packet disagrees with his phone, you are done.

- Observed on Google for “smoke shop taft, ca,” area Taft: Ali's c store, 5.0 (8), tobacco shop, 1048 Kern St, (661) 745-4323, open until 10 PM, one photo, snippet “Best place in town for all your tobacco needs.” Then Fred's, 4.1 (85), 1006 6th St, (661) 765-4807, until 11 PM. Then Taft Discount Center, 4.3 (9), 1117 Kern St #3, (661) 763-0000, until 8 PM.
- Still unknown: whether he has claimed the listing (“Own this business?”), his opening hour, and whether a website is linked on the profile. The places panel did not show a site. Do not say “you have no website” as a fact. Say “I have not found one in your name.”
- Do not mention G&A Mini-Mart or Speed Stop. Taft Discount Center is the third result. Use that one.
- Do not quote a domain until you have checked `aliscstore.com` and `aliscstoretaft.com`.
- Leave the September owner audit at home. It is wrong as of this search.

2. Say this. Never say that.

Safe	False — do not say it
On Oct 5 you were first for that search: 5.0 from 8. Fred's was second: 4.1 from 85. Taft Discount Center third: 4.3 from 9.	“You're buried,” “hours aren't listed,” “you have 6 reviews,” “Fred's 85 is only on a directory.”
Phone on the listing is (661) 745-4323. Google shows you closing at 10 PM. Ask him if that hour is right. You do not know when he opens.	“You have no Google listing,” or “you will be number one.” He already was, once. It can change tomorrow.
No website in his name was found. Products on the old directory (cigarettes, vapes, tobacco, glass, accessories) stay unconfirmed.	Any product list, especially flavors, before he points at the shelf. Do not claim Fred's has no website. You did not recheck that today.
The job is control of the listing, a site he owns, and more reviews than 8. Distance, relevance, and prominence still decide the order.	“This keeps you #1,” “voice search,” “AI will recommend you,” “X new customers.”

> If he asks for a customer forecast: “I won't give you one. Shops that do are guessing. You'll see calls, direction requests, site visits, and reviews against a baseline. If those don't move, you stop after three months.”

3. The 15-minute meeting

1. Phone on the counter. He searches “smoke shop Taft.” You already know the likely result. Say it before he scores a point: “You're first. 5.0 from 8 reviews, open till 10. Fred's is second, 4.1 from 85. Taft Discount Center is third, 9 reviews. You win the stars. You lose the pile of proof. I have not found a website in your name.” If his screen differs, drop your numbers and use his.

2. Hand the decision packet. Point at the combo table. Do not read it.
3. Close: “Two jobs. Local, no website: Get Chosen is $1,030 down, or Get Found is $330 down and skips the review card. Website, no listing work: Essential is $650 down, Standard is $1,050 down. You can mark one, the other, or both. Which boxes?” Then stop talking.
4. If he marks any paid box: collect hours and phone. If a local box is marked, book the photo and Google visit. Collect half the combined setup. No date on local work, or no payment, means it is a maybe. Do not start.

4. Money rules

Box	Setup / down	Monthly
Get Found, no site	$660 / $330	None
Get Chosen, no site	$2,060 / $1,030	$120
Essential	$1,300 / $650	None
Standard	$2,100 / $1,050	None
Get Chosen + Essential	$3,360 / $1,680	$189
Get Chosen + Standard	$4,160 / $2,080	$189

How the local prices were cut. The old Get Found price was $1,320 for a listing plus a one-page site. That page is no longer sold. I split that $1,320 in half and took $660 off both local packages. Get Chosen was $2,720, so it is now $2,060. Essential ($1,300) and Standard ($2,100) are the order-form prices and are not on the 20% discount. Do not quote $1,320, $2,720, $1,360 down, or $660 down. Those numbers included a page this packet does not sell. If you think the listing is worth more than $660, change it before you print. Do not invent a new split in the room.

Price floor. The floor is the sum of the boxes he marks. No second discount. Do not throw the review card into Get Found. Do not treat Standard’s “local SEO” line as claiming his Google listing. That claim is Get Found or Get Chosen.

Monthly. $0 if he buys Get Found alone or a website alone. $69 only when Get Found is paired with a website: site stays up, domain renewal, one small text change. $120 is Get Chosen with no website: two Google updates, review replies, the report. $189 is Get Chosen plus a website, and it already includes the $69. Three months, then month to month. Yearly care is $2,079 only when the monthly is $189.

5. What he owns, in one breath

“If you buy a site, the domain is in your name and you keep the files. If you buy the listing, it stays on your email and I'm only a manager. Half is due before I start. The other half is due when the boxes you marked are done. After three months you can cancel a monthly fee. I don't refund a half after that half is delivered. My cell is (661) 768-8545.”

Google verification needs him present (video) or a postcard to the store. Say that up front so a postcard doesn't look like delay.

6. Objections

Answer in two sentences. Then ask the choice question again. Do not stack three benefits after a no.

“I'm already number one. Why would I pay?”

> “You are, for that search, today. Eight reviews is a thin lead over a shop with 85. You also don't control the listing until it's claimed on an email you own, and there's no site in your name if someone taps through. I'm not selling you a ranking you already have. I'm selling you the thing that makes 8 look like a real choice against 85, and a listing nobody else can edit.”

“I already have my regulars.”

> “They aren't the 8 reviews. The person comparing you to Fred's sees 5.0 versus 4.1 and then sees 8 versus 85. Regulars don't add the next review. The card on the counter does. That's Get Chosen, not Get Found.”

“Too expensive.” / “I can get a website for $300.”

> “A $300 template doesn't claim the listing. The listing alone is Get Found, $330 down, no monthly. A real site with no listing work is Essential, $650 down, no monthly. The review card is why Get Chosen costs more. I won't move that card onto the cheaper box.”

“My nephew / a guy on Facebook will do it.”

> “If they will claim the listing with you, shoot the real store, match your name and hours everywhere, and report the numbers, use them. Most of those offers are a template and a login they keep. The domain and the Google account stay in your name here. Ask them who keeps the login.”

“Google is free. Why am I paying you?”

> “The listing is free. It is not filled out, and you don't control it. You're paying for the hours, the photos, and the work of claiming it. The website is a separate box. I'm not selling ads.”

“I don't want a monthly fee.”

> “Then don't buy Get Chosen, and don't pair Get Found with a website. Essential, Standard, and Get Found alone have no monthly fee. The $120 and $189 are the upkeep. They stop after three months if you want them to.”

“Will I be number one? How many new customers?”

> “You were first on October 5. I won't promise you stay there, and I won't invent a customer count. The baseline is 5.0 and 8 reviews. You'll see whether that count, the calls, and the direction requests move. If you need a guarantee to say yes, the answer is no.”

“Fred's has been here forever. I can't catch 85 reviews.”

> “You don't need to catch 85. You need more than 8, because 85 is what Google itself shows on Fred's, not a side website. Hours and a photo are already there. The missing piece is a counter card and you actually asking. Get Found does not include that card.”

“I don't trust you with my Google.”

> “Good. Don't give me the owner login. You create it or use one you already have. I get manager access. You can delete that access tonight if you want. If someone asks you for the only login, don't hire them.”

“What if I cancel? What if you disappear?”

> “You keep the domain, the files, and the listing. Half is due before I start. The other half is due the day it launches. I don't start without the first half, and I don't launch without the second. Write my phone on the packet. If I don't answer, you already own the assets.”

“I need to think about it / talk to my brother.”

> “Take the packet. The down payment is half of whatever boxes you mark. The small local job is $330 down. Essential is $650 down. I'll be back [name the day]. I won't hold the local discount past that visit.”

Mean the deadline. If you extend it once, you've told him the price is fake.

“I tried advertising. It didn't work.” / “Facebook banned me.”

> “That's normal for tobacco and vape. Paid ads on Google and Facebook are restricted, so I'm not proposing ads. The free listing and your own site are what's left. Paying for ads you can't run is the waste. This isn't that.”

“I don't want my products online.” / “People will copy my prices.”

> “Then buy local only, or keep the shop page to categories without prices. California means no flavor ads, and a site says 21+. If you buy no website, I publish no products.”

“Don't bother my customers for reviews.”

> “Then pick Get Found. Get Chosen includes a card, not a script you have to perform, and not a coupon for a review. Google will remove reviews you pay for or filter. Asking is allowed. Bribing is how you lose the listing.”

“Can I pay cash, all at once, for a better price?”

> “Cash is fine. All at once is fine. The price is the sum of the boxes. Half before I start, half when those boxes are done. Paying the whole thing today doesn't buy a discount.”

“Just do the Google listing. Skip the website.”

> “That's allowed. Get Found is the listing only, $660, $330 down, no monthly. There is no website in that price. If you also want a page, Essential is the smaller site. I won't build a free page on the side.”

“The 20% off means your price was made up.”

> “The 20% is only on Get Found and Get Chosen. Essential and Standard are not discounted. If you don't want to be the example, the local work goes back to $825 or $2,575. I won't discount the websites to match.”

“Can you throw in Instagram / a POS / online ordering?”

> “No. Ordering, a POS, and the full-scope demo are not in this packet. Standard does not include them. If you want that later, we scope it after this is live.”

7. Compliance, said once

- Minimum age 21. The site says so.
- California restricts most flavored tobacco and vape. Do not write flavor copy, menthol promotions, or a product grid until he points at what he legally sells. You are not his lawyer. If he asks “is this flavor legal,” tell him to confirm with his supplier or the state, and leave it off the site until he does.

- No review incentives, no review gating, no fake reviews. One Google policy violation can wipe the listing you just built.

8. Close and walk away

> Close: “Local: none, Get Found at $330 down, or Get Chosen at $1,030 down. Website: none, Essential at $650 down, or Standard at $1,050 down. Which two boxes?”

> Walk away when: he wants a ranking guarantee, a second discount, your ownership of the Google login, flavored-product ads, or paid reviews. If he marked a local box and won't do the in-store verification, drop the local box or walk. A website-only job does not need that visit.

The pricing page mentions demo videos on Standard. Those are the fictional Smoke & Supply videos. Do not put them on his live shop site.

Leave-behind: owner decision packet only. If he says not now, book the return day before you leave the counter. No day on the calendar means the meeting failed.
